

Science Fiction

| Author | Title | Summary |
|---------------------------|-------------------------------------|---|
| Ames, Rachel | Anna to the Infinite Power | A twelve-year-old math genius discovers that she is part of a cloning experiment! |
| Anderson | The Kindling | When all of the adults have died, a group of children band together to form a family. |
| Bawden, Nina | Off the Road | Tom's grandfather goes into the forbidden wild, and Tom follows him. There Tom finds a world that is different from what he's been taught by his technological society. |
| Blacker, Terence | The Angel Factory | Thomas has perfect life until he opens a secret file on his father's computer. |
| Christopher, Matt | The White Mountains | Tripods have taken over the earth, and they demand that all humans become "capped" when they reach the age of 14. Will finds that this takes away a person's ability to think independently, so he runs away to avoid his capping. He tries to find a place that he's heard about. It is a place where people still are free. |
| Clements, Andrew | Things Not Seen | When a boy becomes invisible, he seeks a scientific explanation for his condition. |
| Coville, Bruce | I Was a Sixth Grade Alien | An alien ambassador's son finds it difficult to fit in at a public school. |
| DuPrau, | The City of Ember | Ember was created to preserve humanity. Unfortunately, the escape plans have been lost, and all supplies are running out. Can two children discover the secrets of their city before it's too late? |
| Farmer, Natalie | The Ear, The Eye and the Arm | It is 2194, and Zimbabwe's security chief keeps his children behind isolated from the crime and pollution that ravage the country. When the children decide to break out, gangsters kidnap them. Three detectives with special powers try to find them. |
| Haddix, Margaret Peterson | Among the Hidden | Since the famine, the government has limited families to two children. Luke is an illegal third child. He meets with another shadow child, and they find that they are not alone. |
| Haddix, Margaret Peterson | Turnabout | An experiment allows 100-year-olds the opportunity to grow younger each year! |
| Halam, Ann | Taylor Five | Taylor isn't your everyday kid. She is a clone living on an orangutan reserve in Borneo. When rebels attack, she escapes with her younger brother and a special orangutan. Will they survive this ordeal? |
| Hughes, Monica | Invitation to the Game | Robots have taken most jobs in 2154. Fortunately, Lisse and her friends have a chance to escape the boredom when the government asks them to play The Game . |
| L'Engle, Madeline | A Wrinkle in Time | Meg Murray and her friends search for her father who disappeared while working for the government. |

| | | |
|-------------------|----------------------------------|--|
| Lowry, Lois | Gathering Blue | Kira's special skills allow her to escape certain death. Instead the Council of Guardians takes her in and sets her to work. However, she comes into conflict with her leaders when she learns the truth about her family and community. |
| Nix, Garth | Shade's Children | In a future, post nuclear world, no one is allowed to live past his or her 14 th birthday. Four fugitives try to overthrow the oppressive government with the help of Shade, a mysterious survivor. |
| Paulsen, Gary | The Schernoff Discoveries | Two high school geeks conduct experiments to help them deal with junior high school bullies |
| Paulsen, Gary | The Transall Saga | When he encounters a blue light, Mark is sent into an ancient, violent world. There he must attempt to survive many dangers. |
| Reeve, Philip | Mortal Engines | London and other major cities are now on wheels! They move around devouring smaller cities. 14-year-old Tom is an apprentice engineer in London. When he foils a murder plot, he is jettisoned from the city. In his struggle to survive he discovers some difficult truths about his former home. |
| Shusterman, Neal | The Dark Side of Nowhere | Jason learns that he is an alien, and that his parents are part of the advance force of an alien invasion. Can Jason support the murders of his human friends and welcome the other aliens who are heading for Earth? |
| Sleator, William | Parasite Pig | After saving the world from aliens, Barney plays the game the aliens left behind. This action sends him hurtling through space and makes him the partner of a parasitic worm as he plays the game! |
| Sleator, William | The Night the Heads Came | Aliens who want to use Tim's talent capture Tim and Leo. Unfortunately, the two boys have no idea what Tim's talent is! |
| Waugh | Earthborn | Nesta learns that her parents are aliens who have been researching on Earth. Now they are about to move back to their home. Nesta does not want to leave the only home that she's ever known. |
| Westerfeld, Scott | The Secret Hour | When Jessica moves to Oklahoma from Chicago, she makes a strange discovery. She finds that she is a person who has special powers. These powers allow her to experience a secret hour hidden at midnight. Unfortunately, ancient creatures awaken at that hour, and they're after Jessica! |